“Stop the War”

Today the Russia - Ukraine War 2/24 is a week old. It is already unnecessarily long and it looks it shall escalate unless reasonable dialogue instead of hostility prevails

Every split second any war continues is a split second too long.

Despite the many different topics in the discussion the sole thing of importance for now is to achieve that everyone stands down immediately in order for the killing of people and for the destruction to stop.

No doubt, Russia is the invader and Ukraine is the defender of its sovereign state territory. Important facts for later but no sense wasting time with now. Ukraine takes the beating but the real quarrel is between Russia and the USA. So President Biden and President Putin with no time whatsoever to waste have to get together, sit down and enter into dialogue and understanding. Russia and the USA are the only parties able to end this war. The UN, the EU, NATO, their respective members and other states have no power over this War whatsoever. Instead of mingling, siding and this way only confusing the situation all these institutions and states should sideline for now and must show more restraint.

Life and therefore the world is not simply black or white, good or bad. Anyone fueling this War makes himself guilty. Only Ukrainians have every right to defend their country independent of the question in how far an Oligarch ruled highly corrupt system making Ukraine effectively a failed stated to western standards is really worth supporting, and siding with or even fighting for.

Ukraine and Ukrainians are paying the price for the overall bad quality in politics the past decades.

Russia has invaded Ukraine and wages this War for a reason. We In the West all have heard Russia's reasoning many times but either were and remain ignorant or the conflict resulting in the War fits a not so glorious agenda.

Russia for this military action shall be remembered always as the invader. Their intention to copy / paste the standard western military intervention narrative was miserable, completely blown out of proportion and failed. Ukrainian defense most likely was completely miscalculated by the Russian military planners and their war plan phase one most probably foresaw a completely different invasion and occupation scenario. Another perfect example that wars many times simply do not go according plan but have their own dynamics prone to spin out of control.

It is one week into the military action and the war must be stopped requiring all parties to get serious again.

Therefore from an unemotional, rational point of view it is neither really understandable and acceptable that i.e. the EU and its members instead of taking measures to calm the situation rather ill advised have immediately taken side with Ukraine and follow steps which from an outside prospective must be recognized as actively fuelling the war action in Ukraine. Is the West under the leadership of the USA really doing their best to stop the War or is it rather so that weapon deliveries, bad mouthing, “destructive” sanctions and other communication we hear and action we see are offensive instead of calming. Nothing offensive shall help to end the War. On the opposite people on the offensive stupidly risk a partial or full nuclear end game. Anyone engaging to further corner the Russian Government without a positive exit proposal is guilty that the War unnecessarily continues and maybe worse that the War escalates.

Mr. Biden and Mr. Putin get together and make the War end. Let us all stop the hostility in our words and actions and further dialogue again. Let's stand down and let's be peaceful again. Those who do not, whichever side, are criminals. Dirk P. Schneider
